ANNUAL REPORT

A Year Like No Other

2020 was a year nobody could have predicted and one that shook us all to our cores. The impact of Covid-19 upon our lives, personally, professionally and communally cannot be understated and we have all faced great losses, particularly amongst the Jewish community and other ethnic minority groups.

At Mitzvah Day we knew we had to respond to the urgent needs that were exacerbated by Coronavirus and we swiftly encouraged individuals to check on isolated neighbours and to support them. Following this we launched #EveryMitzvahMatters – an online, interfaith, social action programme.

Throughout 2020 we focused on two major crises worsened by Covid-19, food poverty and combatting loneliness.

We worked closely with our charity partners to create Covid-19 safe projects and with Government officials to create pandemic-safe Mitzvah Day guidelines to protect volunteers, charity partners and beneficiaries.

With a second lockdown announced directly before Mitzvah Day we decided we had to do more in the face of the additional restrictions, and we launched A Month of Mitzvahs, filling lockdown with kindness.

It has been a privilege to lead Mitzvah Day through this extraordinary period as we shifted to homeworking, moving out of our offices, and adjusted our operations to be Covid-19 safe.

We made the difficult decision to furlough staff when we realised that our regular year-round interfaith, social action events wouldn't be feasible, operating with a reduced team. Rather than risk possible transmission we decided not to produce or distribute merchandise and instead encouraged everyone taking part in Mitzvah Day 2020 to wear an old Mitzvah Day t-shirt or something green when doing their small acts of kindness. Yet despite the challenges we have shown how, even during a pandemic, everyone can do small acts of kindness for others.

I must end with words of thanks to the thousands of volunteers, and the incredible individuals and faith communities that have been, and continue to be, at the forefront of social action initiatives giving so much of their time to make a real difference in their neighbourhoods. Throughout this incredibly challenging period the Mitzvah Day Trustees have provided invaluable advice and support and the Mitzvah Day team have been understanding, flexible and remained unwaveringly positive in the face of much uncertainty. My gratitude also goes out to all our supporters for continuing to believe in the work of Mitzvah Day.

Thank you for joining us on this journey and being part of the Mitzvah Day family. Wishing you good health and hoping that, in the near future, we can once again join together in person,

Georgina Bye
Chief Executive

What is Mitzvah Day?

Mitzvah Day brings thousands of us together to give our time, not our money, to charities which need us.

Mitzvah Day brings people, of all faiths and none, together through Jewish led social action. Based upon the Jewish values of gemilut chasadim (acts of kindness), tzedek (justice) and tikkun olam (repairing the world), it is the largest multi-faith day of social action in the UK, and is a key calendar event in Jewish communities in over 30 countries.

We bring thousands of people together, to give our most valuable possession, our time. We strive to make a positive difference to the communities around us on Mitzvah Day and throughout the year by encouraging and celebrating volunteering, and building relationships with people we may not usually meet to build a stronger civil society.

On Mitzvah Day, communities and individuals are empowered to engage in a wide variety of social action projects including: visiting older or lonely people; collecting clothing to donate to refugees; replenishing food bank stores; cooking for homeless people; taking part in environmental projects; and many other initiatives. All of these projects facilitate genuine connections between communities, individuals and the charities they support, using social action as the way to connect.

#EveryMitzvahMatters

Throughout the past year we have all seen and felt how much a small act of kindness can put a smile on someone's face and brighten their day.

As we isolated to protect loved ones, the NHS, frontline workers and strangers, so many people have gone above and beyond to reach out and support local causes. Whether it has been grocery shopping or picking up prescriptions for our neighbours, cooking meals for vulnerable or isolated family or friends in our local areas, or sending gratitude packs or home-baked treats to frontline heroes, these small actions have truly made all the difference.

To show people that caring is easy, even from home, we created #EveryMitzvahMatters so that everyone could get involved and do good deeds, little or large.

Our online sessions allowed people all over the UK and around the world to connect, to laugh together and to hear from people of all faiths and backgrounds. Sharing our stories and our strength without barriers has allowed us, even when we are far apart, to feel more together than we could have imagined.

A Month of Mitzvahs: Filling lockdown with kindness

With a second lockdown announced right before Mitzvah Day our overwhelming belief was that instead of feeling restricted or limited by the lockdown, we had to do more.

A Month of Mitzvahs was born as we were determined to fill the whole second lockdown with kindness and good deeds.

A huge number of projects took place on Mitzvah Day itself and in addition to these we facilitated projects every single day throughout the second lockdown.

Although we couldn't paint the town green as we usually do, we were able to spread joy and kindness in a deeply meaningful and impactful way. The vast number of street collections for local foodbanks, the thousands of handmade cards and letters sent, as well as video messages recorded for care home residents, ensured that acts of loving-kindness were shared across the globe even when we had to remain apart.

Mitzvah Day in the media

Police officers assist an arresting mitzvah idea

BY JC REPORTER

NORTHWOOD UNITED Synagogue enlisted officers from South Oxhey Police to make its belated Mitzvah Day event run smoothly.

The officers helped Northwood members pack and deliver goody bags to three local nursing homes, as well as to tenants at Jewish Blind and Disabled's Cecil Rosen Court in Bushey. Police vans were branded with Northwood United Synagogue insignia for the day.

On arrival at the JBD property, the volunteers were greeted by JBD chief executive Lisa Wimborne, who said the delivery had "brought excitement and smiles to everyone at Cecil Rosen Court. On behalf of our tenants, a huge thank you to everyone for some much-welcomed Mitzvah Day cheer."

The project was part of the #EveryMitzvahMatters initiative, which promotes small everyday acts of kindness during the pandemic.

Different faiths and communities unite

By Nathan Louis

Faith leaders, schoolchildren, parents, a charity, a Jewish youth group and supportive members of the public came together in a display of unity at the weekend.

Mitzvah Day, a Jewish-led day of social action, was marked differently this year because of the pandemic.

But volunteers and guests were still able to carry out charitable and community-led activities on Sunday across Borehamwood and Bushey with the theme of 'Food Brings us Together' and 'Celebrating Diversity'.

As part of the day, a video was streamed live in which messages of peace and friendship were shared by faith leaders from Hertsmer's Christian, Jewish, Hari Krishna and Muslim communities, together with the coordinators of Gratitude - a charity which supplies food and other goods to people in need.

The video also featured drawings from schoolchildren at Yavneh Primary School and...

Good deeds aplenty throughout the land

Irene, 101, is Mitzvah Day's oldest volunteer

CENTENARIAN IRENE GATOFF, pictured above, has officially become Mitzvah Day's oldest active volunteer by taking part in this year's Month of Mitzvahs.

The 101-year-old Newcastle woman is passionate about helping others and has been involved with Mitzvah Day for many years.

This week she served together to make two blankets to help the homeless over the winter.

The blankets have been donated to the charity Glamping Lives, which each year helps more than 14,000 people who are facing challenging times.

Irene said: "I enjoy Mitzvah Day as it feels like I'm helping people, to show the world that we care for those less fortunate. I enjoy making the blankets with all the people from the community, so it really brings us together."

Manchester volunteers are driven to participate

WHITFIELD HERREW Congregation's Men's House contributed to the month of mitzvahs with a series of Covid projects, among them a "drive" collection.

Men's House drove to friends' homes to collect long-life food items for the charity. Men's House also became a food bank hub, with volunteers dropping items on a table in a park without the need to leave vehicles.

Men's House also partnered with the charity 'Give Us a Home' to help with their 'Give Us a Home' project. Men's House also participated in the 'Give Us a Home' project.

Passing your driving test with Mitzvah Day

AN innovative programme to help refugees pass their driving tests formed part of the Mitzvah Day programme in Cumbria on Sunday.

Minutes for Miles involved Jewish student volunteers from Leeds, Edinburgh and Bristol universities.

Supporting refugees with tuition to gain a UK driving licence, Minutes for Miles was set up during lockdown by Jewish volunteer Abigail Mann, who is supported by a team of volunteers many of whom were referred to her by the Jewish Volunteers Network.

Volunteers provided one-to-one tuition, online, to refugees, to help them pass their driving theory test.

Driving language support sessions via Zoom were held, whilst other volunteers worked collaboratively online to create driving vocabulary e-learning resources to be used by refugees on the programme going forward.

Abigail Mann, who has run Mitzvah Day events in Cumbria for the past four years, told the Jewish Telegraph: "I am overwhelmed by the number of Jewish volunteers from across the country who are, once again, generously donating their time to Mitzvah Day. In these unprecedented times we have managed to show that we can work together to support those less fortunate than ourselves and make a lasting difference to people's lives, even though we can't be with them in person."

Keir in the community

Our day of good deeds has just got longer

LABOUR LEADER KEIR STARMER has joined the Mitzvah Day community in his north London constituency where he helped with a food and clothing collection, with items to be distributed to three charities dedicated to helping the elderly.

He said: "I wish these food donations were not needed, but it fills me with hope to see how generous and selfless our community has been in rising to the challenges of the last few months."

Meanwhile, hundreds turned out for the charity's 'Give Us a Home' initiative, which included its young members leaving mystery challenges to tidy up the garden at the Peace Hospital in Watford, a record 18 black sacks of food being filled in Bushey High Street for the charity (GIFT), and a collection for key workers organised by Bobbetts Skin Care.

Mill Hill United Synagogue distributed items to doorstep drops to isolated people in the community, while Haverhill United held a collection for the charity 'Good for Good'.

Stamers Synagogue held collections for...

Whitefield marks Mitzvah Day

IT WAS a busy time for Whitfield Hebrew Congregation when it marked Mitzvah Day.

Organisers ran two schemes for the big day, with the first, a driver-by-food bank.

It saw 13 teams who messaged friends and, in a socially-distanced manner, collected long life food items for a local food bank in...

The shul was also turned into a driver-by food bank, where donors drove into the car park, and placed food items on a table.

Its ker and batmitzvah clubs were challenged to raise their age in kilograms - 12 for girls, 13 for boys - which they easily achieved. And an estimated £5,000 of goods were collected.

They then decorated a box filled with cookies to give to an assigned person living near their home, which continued the theme of doing mitzvah and bringing smiles to people's faces.

What They Said

Sir Keir Starmer
Leader of the Opposition

"I want to pay tribute to the incredible work being done by Mitzvah Day to encourage us all to give our time to help others. This day is a wonderful opportunity to see people of different faiths working together to enrich their local communities."

Nicola Sturgeon
First Minister of Scotland

"Mitzvah Day is an excellent example of how Jewish values are harnessed for the benefit of all communities. Whether it be providing food to those who need it or reaching out to those experiencing social isolation and loneliness, all these acts of kindness, no matter how small, are significant and will be appreciated."

Ephraim Mirvis
Chief Rabbi

"I would like to congratulate Mitzvah Day for encouraging us all to do more for those who are seriously affected by the pandemic – both on Mitzvah Day itself and indeed throughout the whole year."

Rabbi Charley Baginsky
Liberal Judaism
CEO

"Mitzvah Day shows the very best of our Judaism in action – as we unite with those of all faiths and none to do something for those who need it most. Mitzvah Day has become such an important part of our calendar that it's hard to remember a time when it didn't exist."

Sadiq Khan
Mayor of London

"Mitzvah day is another example of the profoundly positive contribution London's Jewish community makes to our city. By encouraging Londoners of all faiths and backgrounds to come together today and volunteer in support of good causes, you're helping to show that our diversity isn't a weakness but our greatest strength."

THE PRIME MINISTER

Mitzvah Day has become a great British tradition. I am delighted and not at all surprised to see all the inspirational Mitzvah Day volunteers rise to the challenge of COVID - not just maintaining this fantastic Jewish-led day of good deeds, but going further and creating an entire month of mitzvahs!

People of all faiths are working together, side by side in spirit, to ensure volunteering efforts continue safely at a time when people need them the most. Mazel tov on your fantastic achievements and thank you to everyone who is working so hard to fill November with kindness.

Challenging Real Social Need

It would have been easy this year to have taken a step back. We might have accepted that it just wouldn't be possible to do Mitzvah Day in the way that we have done for the past 12 years.

However, that isn't our style and nor would it have been right. With the impact of Covid-19 we knew that instead of doing less we had to do more. #EveryMitzvahMatters recognised that in lockdown we needed meaningful and fulfilling ways to connect and do small acts of kindness for our neighbours and for people alone and vulnerable.

Divisions in society are driven by isolation, fear, misinformation and a need to look for blame.

Our job at Mitzvah Day, this year in particular when we have been more separate than ever due to lockdown restrictions, has been to find ways, even when we are apart, to bring people together; to connect, share, support one another and to understand difference.

Mitzvah Day provides the reason, the projects the connections and the glue. The participants, led by an army of volunteer coordinators across the globe, do the rest.

Mitzvah Day is the highlight in the faith communities' calendar for social action and the springboard for doing good all year round. It's a key connector that allows us to reach out to people of all faiths and backgrounds and despite the challenges we will continue to reach out and build relationships across religious, generational and societal divides.

Most of all we are now looking ahead to the future, when we can be reunited with our loved ones, family, friends and community. We also look forward to coming back together with people from other faiths and backgrounds united in our desire to improve the world around us for #MitzvahDay2021.

Mitzvah Day International

Mitzvah Day has experienced tremendous international growth over the past 12 years. More than ever, the message of partnership between different faith communities and social action projects that serve local needs, resonates deeply with communities all over the world.

2020 saw Mitzvah Day projects in 35 different countries. In partnership with our Mitzvah Day hubs in Australia, Brazil, Germany, Latin America and South Africa and Mitzvah Day newly established in Switzerland with a multi-lingual site, we are able to spread our grassroots model of engagement, building more communal partnerships around the world.

This year we established a new partnership with Maccabi Europe, which we will continue to deepen and expand, alongside our partnerships with Lazos and the Commonwealth Jewish Council.

We are delighted and proud that Mitzvah Day Australia celebrated their 10th anniversary this year, albeit not as planned, but with a plethora of Mitzvah Day projects responding to local fires, supporting food collections and distribution as well as befriending projects.

Mitzvah Day Interfaith

Bringing people of all faiths and backgrounds together to do social action side-by-side

This year, with the Covid-19 global pandemic it was near impossible to bring people of all faiths and backgrounds together in person to do social action side-by-side. However, despite the restrictions in place many communities and groups still found ways to come together to support local community needs within government guidelines.

Through #EveryMitzvahMatters – our online, social action programme – we brought faith leaders and people of all faiths and backgrounds around the world together on screen. We shared how we were managing during lockdown and how we were celebrating Passover, Easter and Ramadan.

During a Month of Mitzvahs many groups maintained and even built new community relationships between different faith groups.

Spotlight on Interfaith: Social Action in 2020

Mill Hill

The community in Mill Hill and Mitzvah Day coordinators were determined to ensure that this Mitzvah Day, as with previous years, was spent working hand-in-hand with other faith groups to support local needs whilst sticking closely to the guidelines and restrictions in place.

Together with the local church and mosque, vulnerable and isolated individuals were gifted plants and hand made cards that had been decorated by local children.

These were delivered on Mitzvah Day making a profound impact on the recipients who found Mitzvah Day 'socially enriching'. One of them shared the following message of thanks:

"Just to say thank to you for the potted plants that I received from the lovely person who knocked at my front door and how nice it was to have a socially distanced chat. It raised my spirits and I hope I did the same for the lovely person visiting".

Borehamwood Gratitude Project

Gratitude works to tackle food poverty and adapted their original plans to bring together people of all faiths to renovate the new Islamic centre following the lockdown announcement.

They adjusted their plans to run a virtual session where they welcomed the new Muslim community members with posters and messages of support from primary and secondary school children at Yavneh and the local Jewish community.

Their online interfaith session encouraged others to make foodbank collections, which were then sorted and distributed by volunteers, including FZY participants.
